

A diagram showing a horizontal beam of length 200 mm. The beam is supported by a fixed support at the left end and a roller support at the right end. A downward force F is applied at the right end. The vertical distance from the roller support to the point of application of the force is 60 mm. The region between the two supports is labeled "Design domain".

Design domain

200 mm

F

60 mm